Foreword

For four years we have worked together as a group. Now before we go our individual ways to find our places in life, we publish this annual — as a mirror reflecting the work and play of our last year at Concord High School. May it help us relive in memories the days we have known together.

MISS LILLIAN STEWART

Miss Lillian Stewart

Because you have made our memories rich and dear to the heart, we dedicate this record of our senior year to you.

Your quiet reserve, unassuming manner, understanding personality, and intellectual strength have inspired each of us with loyalty, respect, and admiration.

In Memoriam to Mr. Webb

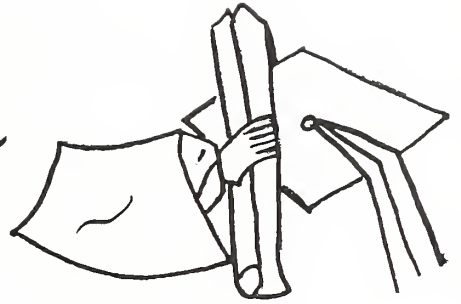

MR. ALBERT SHIPP WEBB

We, the Senior Class, pay tribute to a beloved leader, MR. ALBERT SHIPP WEBB. No memorial established by us can be as durable as the qualities of character which he left behind in the lives of the young people whom he taught. As a sympathetic, understanding man he was a friend to his students and the teachers who worked with him; in a spirit of humility and meekness, he served his church; as a kind, modest citizen, he was a leader in his community. Mr. Webb truly personified Alice Cary's lines:

"Truth worth is in being, not seeming
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good—not in dreaming
Of great things to do by and by."

We Pledge Our Faith

The threshold that opens into a scientific world of inventions and opportunities lies before the graduating class of 1947. Through the wisdom and knowledge acquired at Concord High School, we are able to realize our obligations to this community. While working to obtain dependable characters and alert minds for the promotion of better physical, mental, and spiritual achievement in our future, we have been reminded of the responsibility of daily tasks:

“Let us do our work as well
Both the unseen and the seen;
Make the house, where Gods may dwell
Beautiful, entire, and clean.”

Sharing the burdens and duties of a group has created a steadfastness and a courage in our hearts as we, the smallest class to graduate in several years here, go out to face the perplexities of the economic and political confusion of the world. Our dream, ambition, and goal has arrived. Graduation calls us to the innumerable occupations and professions, and we are ready to accept that challenge.

In behalf of the graduating class, I extend a greeting to your—our parents, teachers, and friends. Standing on this crest and pausing to analyze our past accomplishments before venturing into the future, we trust that the impression we leave with the school and with our friends shall merit the acclaim:

“Well done thou good and faithful servant,
Thou hast been faithful over a few things,
I shall make thee Ruler over many things.”

To this end we pledge our faith.

ALEX MILLS, Salutatorian.

The Days That Are No More

As we, the class of 1947, the first group to graduate from the twelfth grade, complete our work here and launch into the unknown world, let us recall 'the days that are no more.'

Guided by the able leadership of Edith Miller, our president, we began our lives as green freshmen in the fall of 1943. The first few weeks found us rather confused, but we soon became accustomed to our surroundings.

In our wise sophomore year we became more interested in the school and began to take our academic life more seriously. Even though our work became increasingly difficult, Don Safrit and his assistants, Edsel Hagler, Doris Calloway, and Bobby Riggs, led us to the completion of a successful year.

Feeling very important, we advanced to the jolly junior stage. Alex Mills, a new member of our class, was elected president. Helping him were Doris Calloway, Frances Ferguson, and Tommy Walter. During this year we were very busy raising money to give the Class of '46 an unforgettable Junior-Senior. Finally, after a successful magazine campaign and a Valentine's Dance, we were able to honor the seniors with an elaborate banquet and ball.

At long last we became dignified seniors! Glenn Burris replaced Alex Mills as President of our class; otherwise our officers were the same as the previous year. Many of the boys who had left school in the past years to help Uncle Sam came back to join the small, but compact, class of '47. We felt as though we had really reached the peak of our high school life when we received those long anticipated class rings on January 7, but our enthusiasm was even greater when we ordered invitations and caps and gowns.

Now stepping upon the threshold of graduation, we hope that the memories of these four years will always remain with each of us. As we face the future; "let today embrace the past with remembrance and the future with longing."

DORIS CALLOWAY, Class Historian.

Prophecy of Class of 1947

The fortune teller was yelling, "Hear-ye! Hear-ye! Step right up and see what your future may be. This is your big chance so don't pass it up. This wonderful crystal ball has been handed down through the ages and has never been wrong.

Miracles have been accomplished by gazing into this mystic object, but we do not wish to accomplish miracles. Just step inside and we will look into the future of this wonderful Senior Class of '47. Now all in, quiet, as we gaze into the crystal ball."

The crystal begins to glow and a shadow of a figure can be seen walking down a street. What is this? He has stopped and is looking at a sign on the front of a window. Let's read it and see what it says. "Bill Cook, Proprietor; Arnold Aiken, Business Manager, Cattle Inspectors and Live-stock Investors."

The shadowy figure does not stop but ambles along, the same as destiny, and approaching a large night club slips inside. Why of course! This must be the new club that play-boy Paul Holshouser has opened, featuring two lovely Broadway stars, Frances Ferguson and Lettie Davis, with the magic horn of Glenn Burris, and his music makers.

Oh! But the shadowy figure does not ponder, for on and on he wanders, bringing to our vision the beautiful little Soda Fountain and Cafe which belongs to Curtis (Dink) Honeycutt.

Now the figure stops to look into the local theater and says hello to Manager Betty Plott and Assistant Manager Helen Barringer, two lovely girls making wonderful careers for themselves.

Moving on he sees a beautiful new building with enormous display windows and above it the sign, "Mademoiselle Ruth Wingard, Designer." If he strolled inside he would be greeted by Margaret Clanton, general manager, and introduced to models Jane Moose and Doris Calloway, who are strictly all right.

He is now entering the Grand Theater where all the great actors make regular personal appearances. This is the day for "The Great Wit," Frank Widenhouse.

The rambler of the crystal now is enjoying the Marquee of 'Clark and Long's Army and Navy Store,' owned and operated by Jack Clarke and George Long.

The beclouded figure must have decided to get his face lifted for he is entering "Jones' Beauty Shoppe," under the management of Martha Jones and assisted by two lovely girls, Juanita "Rabbit" Dry and Edith Dayvault. What cute manicurists!

As he waits he notices that a local newspaper says 'Two popular young debutantes making their debuts tonight are Nancy Burris and Helen Parker.' Oh! Society! Sweet Society!

Now! He stops beside a radio. I wonder why? Why, to hear the lovely voice of Edna Lee Davis, expert announcer.

As he goes forward into the darkness a shining light guides him into the Y. W. C. A. where he meets Physical Educational Director Betty Smith.

As he journeys on into the night he is reminded of those two hard striving reporters, Nancy Howell and Allene (the Slip) Earley, who are constantly annoying Line Coach Claude (Toad) Adams of the Spiders for sports news.

Now he is talking to a man in a white uniform. Why, it's Gene Blackwelder, city dog-catcher.

Leaving this splendid metropolis he sight of the huge greenhouses of "The Great Man of Blossoms" Alex Mills, and then he strolls on to look in on the quiet home of Billy Andrews and family. Moving across the dales to "Gold Hill," he finds the famous financier Mr. Tommy Walter busy balancing his books.

Just beyond the hills in the quiet rolling country, he finds Vance Miller happy and content on his small but prosperous farm.

The shadow enters an airplane preparing to leave Robinson's Field, owned and operated by John Robinson. Coming down the aisle he meets Stewardess Mary Elizabeth Cruse and Pilot Max Sides. Thought they looked familiar! Sitting down he discovers his companion is Captain Edward Harris of the Navy. Captain Harris enlisted when he was offered a commission.

But look—the crystal ball is growing dark. The fortune teller covers it with a square of velvet.

The Swami, who has taken you into the future, has seen all and shown all.

Your Prophet,
The Swami,
CURTIS HONEYCUTT.

Last Will and Testament

Cabarrus County

Concord, N. C.

Since it is customary for all Senior Classes to bestow a few gifts to those left, we, the Senior Class of 1947, of Concord High School and of the City of Concord, being supposedly of sound mind and body, do hereby make and declare this to be our Last Will and Testament:

SECTION I

Article I. To our ever-alert Principal, Mr. Ralph Glenn, we leave — period.

Article II. To our lowly-paid and nearly poverty-stricken faculty, we bequeath a prayer that their wishes (you know they are) will come true.

Article III. To those undecided Juniors, we do will and bequeath our school-spirit (which is very little), so that they may have an abundant supply.

SECTION II

Article I. I, Curtis "Dink" Honeycutt, do will my good-looks to "Bloss" Trexler, who can use some because of his flirtatious airs.

Article II. I, Frances Ferguson bequeath my megaphone to Anne Sapp, who, I think, will need it only when she has a cold.

Article III. I, Frank "Angelo" Widenhouse, wish to add my knack for cracking jokes to that of George "Ick" Alley's.

Article IV. I, Claude "Toad" Adams, do will and bequeath my football experience to Bill Johnsey.

Article V. I, Ruth Wingard, bequeath my many talents to Annis Trout (and she asked for them!)

Article VI. I, Juanita "Rabbit" Drye, do will my glamour to Peggy Howell.

Article VII. I, Glenn Burris, do will my cornet to Maurice Allen, who has more wind than brains to blow out.

Article VIII. I, Bill "The Biggun" Cook, entrust some of my pounds to Bill Irvin.

Article IX. I, Alex Mills, do will my athletic ability to David "Pearly" Cook.

Article X. I, Billy Andrews, bequeath my quiet ways to Hunter Benfield in order that he might make better on citizenship.

Article XI. I, Jane Moose, do leave my studious ways and knack for English grammar to Barbara Ann Hennessee.

Article XII. I, Lettie Davis, do will and bequeath my silliness to Bobbie Lee.

Article XIII. I, Tommy Walter, do leave my record books and "moo-lah" to Brady Faggart.

Article XIV. I, Paul Holshouser, do hereby bequeath my neatness to Mike Howard.

Article XV. I, Betty Smith, donate my freckles to Jean "Robertee" Ritchie.

Article XVI. I, Martha Jones, do will my blank expressions to Sue Bost.

Article XVII. I, Arnold Aiken, bequeath my "brains" for mathematics to Ernie Kluttz.

Article XVIII. I, Helen Parker, do leave my pleasing ways to Pat Moose.

Article XIX. I, Ray "Big Boy" Sherrill, do will my height—all 4 feet, 8 inches of it—to Nick Hennessee.

Article XX. I, Elizabeth Cruse, bequeath my curly locks to Peggy Lipe.

Article XXI. We, Doris Calloway and Betty Plott, do hereby combine our typing ability and leave it to Von Carl Ritchie in order that he might reach forty words a minute in his third year.

IN WITNESS THEREOF, We, the Class of '47, set our hands and seal this the fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-seven.

The Power of Knowledge

For twelve years we have worked toward a common aim—graduation. Four years ago the end was so distant that we seldom thought of it as a goal. Now that we have achieved this first success, an important stepping-stone to a fascinating new adventure, we realize more acutely the value of the days and years spent here. The knowledge which we have gained from year to year will not forsake us in moulding a strong new future.

Our lives have been marked by two major misfortunes—a depression and a war. Perhaps without these two factors the visions of making a lasting peace would not be so poignant. Throughout the ages the dreams of the youth of one generation have been the realities of the next. That is as it should be because youth either adds vigor and life to an aging era or creates a new and better period. However since the past two decades have proved that dreams of peace are not easily realized, a challenging task faces each of us today. The factual knowledge obtained here, plus that wisdom which will be acquired through experience, must serve as a guide in creating good citizens and producing capable leaders who can shape a true understanding for mankind. Certainly the greatest service we can render as citizens of our nation is to help promote a peace everlasting so that we, too, can say with Tennyson:

“Till the war drums throbbed no longer
and the battle flags were furled

In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world.

“Then the common sense of most shall hold
a fretful realm in awe,

And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapt
in universal law.”

Now before we go our separate ways, it is fitting that we express a final word of appreciation and gratitude to those who have aided so greatly in bringing to the threshold of our minds the knowledge which we shall use in the future. To our schoolmates and teachers we owe a debt which can not be paid in words, but only if we may:

“So live that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him and lies down to pleasant dreams.”

It is with a mingled feeling of sentiment, of regret, and of joy, that we receive our diplomas tonight. As a class we have reached a certain height together. As individuals we cherish in memory these four yeears—our associations, our accomplishments, our triumphs. Individually and together we anticipate the future with eager minds, confident hearts, and hopeful spirits.

RUTH WINGARD, Valedictorian.

Class Poem

*If in each and every day
You have done your best,
That should be enough and more
For you to pass life's test.*

*And if as each day dawns
You should kneel to pray,
That should be enough and more
To make a perfect day.*

*And if in the evening
You would bestow a smile,
That should be enough and more
To make your life worth while.*

Football

During the course of the 1946 football season, many thrilling plays were witnessed by CHS spectators. A play in which Floyd Jarvis ran pigskin for 40 yards in the Children's Home game brought everyone to his feet in joyous outburst. Ernie Kluttz's 70-yard kick in the Kannapolis game will be long remembered by all of us. Of course, Jack Miller's superb passing throughout the season won him the title of the best passer in the South Piedmont Conference. Also, the line bucks and great running of Dick Vaudin won him a scholarship to Duke University.

Perhaps this is not spectacular but interesting. "Ick" Alley complained constantly about not being permitted to carry the ball. So with score 27-0 in the Thomasville game (our last game), he was granted his long-awaited wish. He was permitted to buck the line for an extra point. Old "Iron Head" finally carried the ball and made a point after touchdown.

THE SPIDERS IN ACTION AT NIGHT

Above are action shots of two games played at Webb Field during the fall of '46. These night games attracted spectators from Concord who follow the season with great zeal and high hopes for a conference championship.

Girls' Basketball

Coach Austin's Spiderettes had ten victories in their sixteen game schedule. Outstanding forwards were Bet Smith, Margaret Suther, Christine Winecoff, Kat Cook, and Janie Misenheimer. Outstanding guards were Libby Boulus, Bobbie Lee, Jean Ritchie, Willie Ruth Readling, and Laura Young McClellan. Suther and Smith were co-captains of the squad.

Extra Curriculars

Activities that are being carried on in addition to the regular classroom work are truly an integral part of any school. At Concord High School, clubs and student organizations present a wide variety, meeting the needs of the individual student.

REECE

The Student Organization of Concord High School, consisting of two bodies, the Student Assembly and the Student Council, was formed to encourage a more effective spirit of co-operation between the faculty and the student body, to insure a spirit of democracy, to establish and maintain higher moral and scholastic standards, to encourage participation of students in all school activities and to afford opportunity for real training in citizenship.

The activities of the Student Assembly are varied. Foremost among its regular responsibilities are the handling of traffic in the corridors, the general supervision of the building and the grounds, and the enforcement of the democratic "point system" of membership and honors. Seasonal activities consist of sponsoring "Clean-Up Week," supervising "Parents and Sponsor Night" for the football team, and publishing the student handbook, THE WEB. Other activities are of a social nature, such as the welcoming of new students, the entertainment of school visitors, and the supervision of school social functions. This organization is the link between the administration and the student body, and the "tuning fork" for a student sentiment and school spirit.

The Student Council, consisting of one boy and girl representative from each class elected from among the Student Assemblymen, is an advisory body for the Student Assembly. The Student Council makes a careful study of any matter referred to it by the assembly, and is constantly studying school conditions with the objective of improving the morale of the school.

Hobby Club

The Hobby Club is one of the two larger clubs of the school. Since its beginning several years ago, the membership has increased every year. There are many hobbies incorporated in the one unit, with four leading groups. Those groups, pictured on these two pages, are: handicraft, archery, woodwork, and photography.

Hobby Club

With the release of materials, Mr. Ives has been able to encourage the development of many new hobbies. Linoleum block printing and plastics, along with a greater use of leather) have been added to the list of activities.

This year, Miss Blanche Stewart revived and reorganized the Pan Players, who had been inactive for two years. Attracting a large number of students, the club became the largest extra curricular organization and gave a great number of students opportunity to participate in plays at the regularly scheduled meetings. The major production for the year was THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING, scenes from which appear on the next page.

This year for the first time an organization for Latin was formed under the sponsorship of Miss Lillian Stewart. Composed only of second year students, the club meets every other week during class period, when programs, both informative and entertaining, are presented. Growing from actual class room work, the club has become very popular with the Latin students.

The Cafeteria Assistants, like the Library Assistants, are students who give of their time, energy, and service in order that the routine of the school may go on. The daily preparation of lunch for one-fourth of the students for five days a week through the entire year brings only the glory of an arm-band — but with all the working responsibility. Miss Cobb's group is to be commended for their loyalty.

Enthusiasm for all phases of public speaking has brought together the group known as the Forensic Club. The main project of the year was the American Legion Speech Contest, with Harry Lee Underwood's winning county honors. Under the advisership of Mrs. Randolph, the club has been one of the most influential organizations.
